DISPENSARIES MUST HAVE A LICENSE TO SELL NEAR BEER

Allegheny County Judges So Decided In License Court On Tuesday

WILL AFFECT ALL DEALERS

Impressions that "near beer" would take its place along with soda water, root beer and other soft drinks were dissipated on Tuesday when Judges Thomas D. Carnahan and James R. MacFarlane of the Allegheny county courts, presiding at what is likely the last license court in that county, defined the statutes of "near beer."

Before a dealer can sell any "near beer," the court explained, he must have a license, because the stuff is brewed. This fact has been held in the lower courts heretofore and sustained by the higher tribunals. While they are selling the brew in other states where prohibition exists, there is no edict similar to the Brooks law which regulates the sale of liquor in Pennsylvania. Another thing that will act as handicap, it was said, is the license fee, which may be as much as much, if not as much, as it is today, under which all license holders are permitted to sell all grades of alcoholic stimulants.

These facts were brought out at a hearing of the Hazelwood brewery, which is applying for a county license in Allegheny county, as it intends to sell near beer and as there will be no dealers agate July 1, they will have to dispose of the product direct to the trade.

This will likely be a new view of the regulations which surround the granting of licenses to those who wish to dispense brewed drinks, but as the Allegheny county judges have decided that it requires a license to sell near beer their opinion is likely to hold good until reversed by a higher court.

WERE DISORDERLY LANDED IN LOCKUP

Four young men on the way from Charleroi to Monessen about 12 o'clock last night, acted in such a disorderly manner that their arrest followed. Near the Allenwood stop they picked up a number of lanterns which had been placed as signals to drivers, by the maintenance of way crew of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, and smashed them to pieces. Other actions on their part resulted in the police being called and the young men landed in the lockup. They will be given a hearing before Burgess Woodward this evening at 7 o'clock.

FIFTEENTH ENGINEERS MAY SAIL SATURDAY

It was reported in Pittsburg on Tuesday that the Fifteenth Engineers would sail from France on Saturday the 12th inst. In Pittsburg, where the regiment will parade, extensive preparations are being made to entertain the men. A feature will be a review of the regiment by the Mothers of the men in the command and an entire grandstand being reserved for them.

JANITOR ELECTED FOR NEW BUILDING

An adjourned meeting of the borough council was held at the borough building Tuesday evening at which time a few matters left over from the regular meeting of last week were disposed of.

The chairman of the finance committee reported they had gone over the list of exonerations submitted very carefully and found no objection to approving the list and recommended that council accept the same which was done.

The report of the tax collector for March, showing collections to the amount of $210.63 was presented and approved.

Council then took up the question of electing a janitor for the new building and Dale Davis, who is now employed at the Pittsburg Steel mill is expected to take up the duties of his new position some time next week.

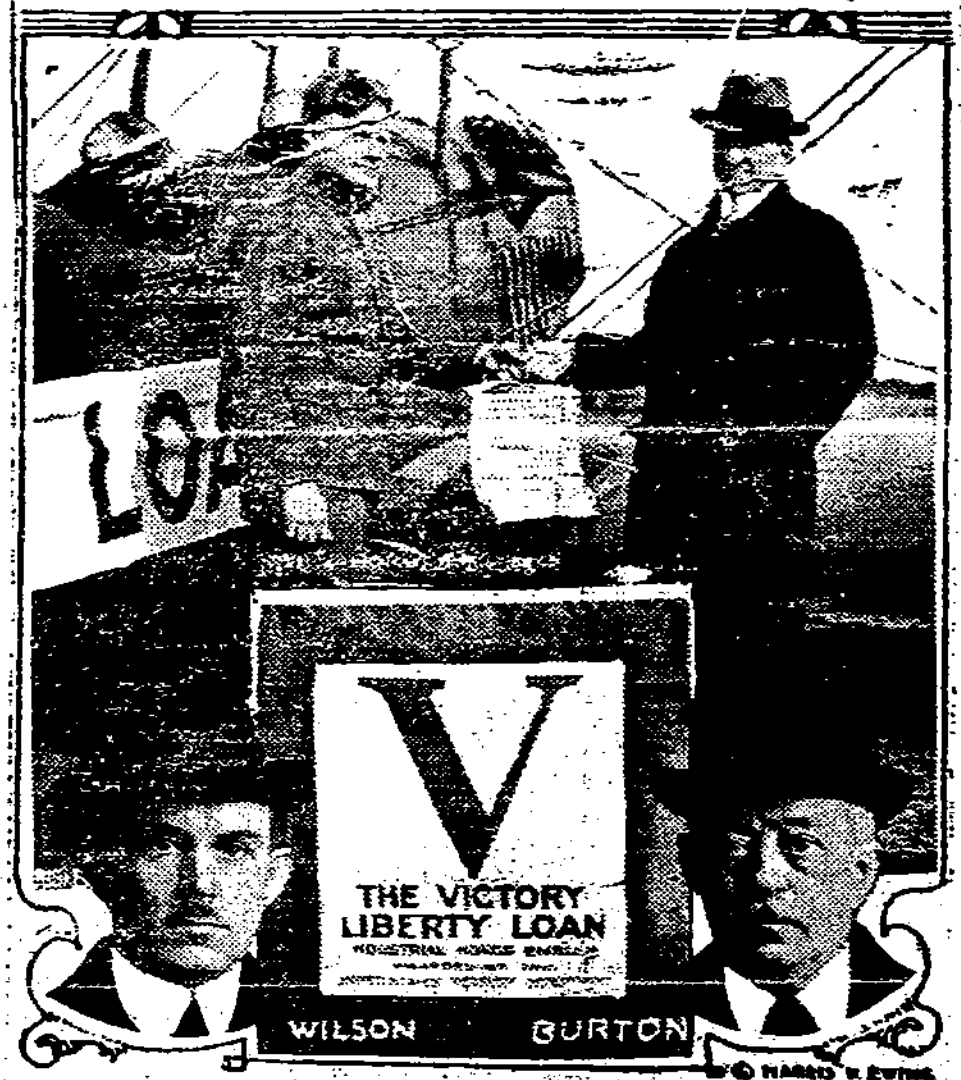

A contract for painting the stack at the garbage furnace was awarded to John Dessing. This completed the business of the evening and council adjourned.

PLEASANT MEETING OF SEWING CIRCLE

The Sewing Circle of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian Church held a convention in the Sunday school room of the church Tuesday afternoon and evening. The meeting was arranged for the pleasure of all the members and the occasion was greatly enjoyed. In the evening a banquet was spread that bespoke careful planning. The room was tastily decorated and the tables made a pretty appearance. The secretary's report for the year was a source of much pride, being the best for many years.

At the close of the banquet the Rev. John R. Burson who was an invited guest, congratulated the society on the splendid showing made and praised the loyalty of the society toward the church. Mrs. Wayne Blackburn gave a reading that was much enjoyed and the remainder of the evening was spent in planning the work for the new year. Mrs. Lewis Tope the president proved to be a genial hostess and the convocation was voted a success by all present.

Fifth Loan Barrage Guns Boom

While the fifth Liberty Loan does not officially open until April 21, the great army of workers all over the nation have been going at top speed for weeks in preparing for the drive. Secretary of Treasury, Carter Glass, is, of course, the pivot around which all the work swings. He really launched the campaign when he posed for this new picture, handing over fifth loan literature to be distributed from airplanes. The inserted pictures are of the fifth loan honor flag—red letters on a white ground with a blue border, W. B. Wilson, director of publicity, and J. H. Burton, the originator of the honor flag.

Brownsville Citizens to Continue Gas Co. Fight

The citizens of South Brownsville, who have been fighting a number of citizens in favor of continuing the fight against the Greensboro Gas Company, are not willing to drop the fight. Attorney Cotton then outlined the procedure in case a valuation has to be made.

This explanation seemed to make the citizens of that town more determined than ever and a motion prevailed that the attorney be instructed to appear before the Public Service Commission on Thursday, April 10th, in Pittsburg on behalf of the people of South Brownsville and unless a more acceptable proposition is made by the gas company to proceed with the case unless it develops that all other complaints are withdrawn.

LOCAL RELATIVES TO WITNESS PARADE

Western Pennsylvania relatives of men in the Twenty-eighth Division will be accorded the same privileges as the Philadelphia relatives, when the Division parades in the eastern city on their arrival from France. It is assured that at least three of the regiments of the Division will land in Philadelphia, but it is expected that the entire Division will parade at a later date in the city of Brotherly Love. It is also expected that a large number of relatives from the western part of the state will go east to witness the parade which will be one of the greatest ever held in Philadelphia.

CAPT. JAS. D. HAYS DIES IN NEW JERSEY

Capt. James D. Hays aged 73 years, formerly of Homestead and a veteran river pilot, died on Tuesday at his home in Tuckahoe, N. J., according to a telegram received by relatives Tuesday night. Capt. Hays resigned his position on the United States steamer Swab about a year ago after many years' service and retired to his farm which he had purchased in New Jersey. He was well known in and about Lock Four, which was the center of his activities while in the government employ, and his many friends there will learn of his death with regret. He was born

SPLENDID PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING

SOLDIERS TO FORM THE AMERICAN LEGION

A delegate meeting of all ranks of soldiers who participated in the war with Germany has been called to meet in St. Louis in May, at which time preliminary steps will be taken to form what is to be known as "The American Legion." This body will be composed of soldiers called to service in the war just closed and will be non-partisan and non-sectarian in character. Lt. Col. Theodore Roosevelt is one of the promoters.

MUST KEEP ALL PREMISES CLEAN

The various streets, alleys and lanes of the boroughs, as well as all private property and yards, having been cleaned of rubbish and garbage, Burgess Woodward has issued a proclamation which says that hereafter any one placing tin cans or other rubbish on the streets, lanes and alleys aforesaid will be apprehended if possible and fined if the merits of the case warrant. Moreover, owners of properties, whether occupied by themselves or by tenants, will be held strictly accountable for their property in this respect and the streets, alleys and lanes which may bound it.

Health Officer Darby reports the town in the best sanitary condition it has ever been, practically one hundred loads of refuse and rubbish have been hauled away, and so far as the health officer has been able to find out, every street, and alley and lane and all premises have been cleaned of all refuse. The borough authorities wish to keep the conditions permanently, and it can be done if the people will only observe the regulations of the health department and the laws of the borough.

YOUNG LADIES CIRCLE MEETS WITH MRS. STAHLMAN

The Young Ladies Circle of the First Presbyterian church was entertained at the home of Mrs. H. Austin Stahlman on Meadow avenue Tuesday evening. Sewing occupied the time of the young ladies. A sumptuous luncheon was served by the hostess assisted by her sister Mrs. John Mallory.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bromwich of Washington avenue has received word from their son Walter that he had arrived in New York with the Eighty-fifth Division. Originally he was with the Sixth Engineers. It is thought he will return to his home within the next ten days.

In Pittsburg and had resided in Homestead for many years. He was a veteran of the civil war and was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and the Grand Army of the Republic. Capt. Hays followed the river the greater portion of his life. Fifth street. 256t-6

GEN. WOOD'S DECORATION

A very large proportion of the American people watched the administration's treatment of General Leonard Wood with bewilderment followed by indignation and disgust. We do not think that presenting Gen. Wood with the Distinguished Service Medal will modify the verdict which the public has quietly found upon that sorry incident of the war. Richly as Gen. Wood deserves the high honor, we can remark upon the reward, we believe, for most of us have appreciated his long and distinguished service to the nation. "Thank you for nothing."

No eleventh hour recognition can whitewash the fact that perry sentiment and personal jealousy conspired to cheat the American army and the cause of the nation of a considerable part of the benefit of Gen. Wood's exceptional gifts. It is true that like a good soldier he put personal consideration by and did valuable service up to the limit of the opportunities permitted him. But that is to the credit of Leonard Wood, and not to the President and secretary of war. The facts are that upon our entry unprepared into the war, when every man of outstanding ability should have been at once utilized to the utmost. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Baker were willing to put Gen. Wood in a place of secondary importance, although they knew, if they knew anything, that he ranked among the first, if not the first, of our military men in varied experience and proved ability.

Personal considerations overruled considerations of the public need, and Gen. Wood was first moved to the South, later out west, later deprived of the command he had brought to a high state of efficiency just as it was about to sail for France, and at one time was threatened with virtual retirement by appointment to the department of the Pacific.

When public indignation was roused by the shoddy and unpatriotic course of action, it was partly allayed by inspired hints that Gen. Wood was being held at home for some important service. But these were of a piece with the pusillanimity of the administration policy toward Gen. Wood and the chapter is now closed ironically, with the award of the Distinguished Service Medal.

The medal brings him nothing. He brings distinction to the D. S. M., which has been given to so many chair warmers as to risk the name Desk Service Medal—Chicago Tribune.

DAYS OF BIG THINGS

Most of us have regretted at one time or another that we didn't live, so long as we had to live, at some earlier day. When knighthood was in flower, in the days of the Roman conquest, along with the Crusaders or at some other period when things were doing. Even Granddaddy's yarns of the early days allured.

But getting right down to brass tacks was there ever such a time as this?

Aren't these the really and truly days of big things?

Haven't more been done to influence the future of the world during the last four years than in the preceding four centuries?

Wasn't this world war just about seven times bigger than anything the old earth had ever witnessed in the way of fighting?

Doesn't the decisions that are being reached at the peace conference mean more for civilization, for humanity, for the future protection and peace of all peoples than any other confab that ever was held?

And were there ever more varied and diverse problems arising than are confronting the world, and Europe in particular, at this present moment?

Was there ever before such accommodations by industry, by labor, by industry, by the financiers, by all the people as has just been witnessed?

Did ever the inventive genius of America take such unprecedented flights to meet the necessities of any occasion?

Hardly. Look back into history and you'll agree that these are big days.

You will agree that this is one expansive age in which to live.

And you should make the most of it. Do your best for the old world. Uncle Sam has done and is doing his very damndest. And he's asking your help to put his task across right. Measure up to the minute. Stand with the men of the hour. Help in every way you can to put the Liberty Loan over. You couldn't be a Crusader, a Roman Conqueror. But you can be a 100 per cent 20th Century American.

A CLEAN TOWN

According to a statement made by Health Officer Darby, Charlevoi was never in a better sanitary condition than it is today. The clean-up which has been in progress for the past week has been finished and about 100 loads of refuse taken to the furnace where a great deal of it has been destroyed, while the ashes and other inflammable material has been otherwise disposed of. Every street and alley in the town has been covered by the teams employed in this service, and as a consequence every yard and every vacant lot has been thoroughly cleaned of the refuse which had accumulated during the past year.

This is a condition of which the town should be proud. Moreover, it is a condition that should be maintained throughout the year. Unfortunately we have not cultivated the habit of keeping refuse carted away but allow it to accumulate in the back yards, expecting that with the recurrence of spring it will be carted away at public expense. While no better plan has been suggested, it might improve conditions if a clean-up of the town was made every month. By so doing there would not be such a quantity of material to move, and it would have the additional advantage of keeping all premises in a much better sanitary condition. The plan might be worth a trial at least, and it would not be any more expensive than the one now in vogue.

PASS THE HAT

Since 1913, says the Pittsburgh Post, Pennsylvania has, with county aid, eliminated toll gates from more than 360 miles of highway, and has $300,000 available for keeping up the work during the next two years. The State usually bears half the cost, and there remain only about 180 miles of such roads, all will soon be freed. It is significant that these archaic systems are practically all to be found in the southeastern section. By all means, the gates should be taken from them and the sum remaining to be paid will scarcely be felt by the progressive counties—so nearly has the burden been passed.

But there is a principle in it that justifies sarcasm at the expense of some of the counties, among them wealthy Lancaster, that are waiting to have the hat passed for them. Long ago Allegheny county at heavy expense freed all toll roads and toll bridges, and so far was it from receiving outside aid as to be under orders from the Federal government to tear down and rebuild certain of the spans just after freeing them. While the citizens of the county will, as a matter of course, "chip in" their bit to free the roads of Lancaster county, they "will have their own notion about it."

How about having a "tag day" for such "poor struggling counties" as Lancaster.

THE GREATEST NEED

"Give the industries of this country the protection they desire and there will be absolutely no cause for continuing the employment agency by the government."

That's the thought of Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, who called attention to the fact that the department of labor has been maintaining an employment bureau, an exceedingly expensive one at that, but has been doing precious little in bringing jobs and job hunters together. The need of the hour is protection protected the industries will boom and require more help than the returning soldiers will be able to supply and at better pay than is possible with the charity jobs proposed for them.

The good roads meeting to be held in Washington tomorrow is one that promises to be well attended by representatives from all parts of the country.

The people of the county have been greatly stirred by the past couple of weeks on the road question, and there is splendid prospects of some beneficial results. It is believed the State authorities will be brought around to our way of viewing the situation and that a greater amount of State money will be expended in the county than at first anticipated.

Washington county is deserving of the most liberal treatment on the part of the State, and every dollar spent by the commonwealth will be duplicated by us, if it is necessary. Along with the State authorities, we want to get our roads up out of the mud.

The sale of the various Liberty loan issues was accomplished partly by appeals to patriotism, and partly by methods which in ordinary times would have been open to criticism, says the Chicago Tribune. The public was advised these bonds were the best investment in the world, and of course, there is no question about their ultimate value. But today their actual cash value is anywhere from six to eight points below par. To keep faith with the public the government ought to devise means to put the bonds back at par. A $100 government bond ought never to be worth less than the investor pays for it. In view of the circumstances under which the bonds were sold the government is under a moral obligation to maintain the market level at par.

Fishermen will be permitted to follow their favorite sport in Pennsylvania without a tax for the pleasure. As a majority of piscatorial artists spend nothing but their time while on fishing trips, it would be "rubbing it in" to charge them a dollar for sport in which the returns are so small.

Heavy snow storms were reported from the west on Monday, but eastern folks were enjoying real spring weather. As a matter of fact the west and northwest appear to be experiencing the worst weather of the year, while we in the east have been spared the discomforts of the late storm.

U. S. ENSIGN WINS HAND OF RICHEST HEIRESS

When Miss Margaret Carnegie, daughter of the steel king, Andrew Carnegie, stepped to the prow of the "Strathmayer" to christen the new boat recently, a pretty little romance was revealed—for she is soon to be the bride of Ensign Roswell Miller. This was one of the first public appearances of the girl who is probably the richest heiress in the country. She has always evaded publicity of all kind—even in social affairs. This is her fiancé with her.

Watch Your Habits.

Habit is a cruel taskmaster. Most men who have a daily routine of employment fall into certain ways of daily life that in time become more exacting than any Simon Legree that ever lived. Even work becomes a habit as the years pass, and the less variety there is to the labor the greater influence it will have in forming a habit. The case of John Agnew, who after 64 years in the service of the city of Chicago was pensioned and died recently because he was deprived of his daily toil, is a striking instance of the effect of habit. "Idleness is killing me," was his complaint. At his age it was almost impossible for him to learn to do anything but that to which he had been accustomed for a much longer period than the average man lives, and he simply rusted away until death ended his fretting. Fortunately is the man who can vary his daily tasks so that they will not fix a hold on him that, as he grows older, it will be impossible for him to shake off.—Exchange.

Policemen of the Sea.

"Two of our most famous gumboats won their laurels in the East. The old side-wheeler Monacacy, which has handed down her Indian name to her Yangtze successor, was for years one of the most familiar sights in Chinese waters. She burned wood and was unwieldy as a ferry boat, but did yeoman service even as late as the Boxer troubles in 1900. "The Jetrel," one of Admiral Dewey's famous squadron at the Battle of Manila Bay, is now used as a station-ship in Cuban waters. The Callao, Don Juan de Austria, Elcano, Isle de Luzon, Pampanago, Quiros, Sandoval, Samar and the Villalobos once flew the flag of Spain, for they were captured from the Spaniards at Santiago or Manila Bay. The Villalobos proved too much of a name for Yankee tars, so they have christened her the "Village Hobo."—Frank E. Evans, in St. Nicholas.

Red Color of Patriotism.

It may be only coincidence or it may be that some deep-seated reason lies behind the fact that red is by far the most predominant color in the flags of the world. There is only one flag in Europe that does not contain red, and that is the standard of Greece. After red, blue is the most frequently found flag color, but a great number of flags are entirely red except that they bear symbolic devices of one kind or another. Thus the flags of Egypt, Morocco, Austria-Hungary and Japan are all red, while no fewer than forty-two other countries display red freely in their banners. Red, by common consent, is supposed to stand for valor and bravery; blue represents justice, while white, as everybody knows, stands for purity.

Have Patience.

How can working together be made as happy and as efficient as possible? By eliminating pride and self-seeking. When we seek only the good of others and seek nothing for ourselves we are not likely to meet with any insurmountable disappointments. By not expecting too much of others and by learning to smile to ourselves without malice or wrath when we see weaknesses in others. By not being too rigid and insistent. We need to remember how patient God is. He has waited a long time for many things and seems willing to wait as long as may be necessary. If we will be like him we shall have less trouble.—Robert E. Speer.

Our Wonderful Language.

A certain merchant died, leaving to his only son the conduct of his extensive business, and great doubt was expressed in some quarters whether the young man possessed the ability to carry out the father's policies. "Well," said one kindly disposed friend, "for my part, I think Henry is very bright and capable. I'm sure he will succeed." "Perhaps you're right," said another friend. "Henry is undoubtedly a clever fellow, but, take it from me, old man, he hasn't got the head to fill his father's shoes."

It Couldn't Be Done.

There was a burly bottled sergeant who delighted in "picking on" the men just from civilian life. One day he was giving the command "Right dress," and one of the fellows was napping and did not do as commanded, after the sergeant had called it out several times. Then the sergeant was furious and shouted to the fellow: "Hey, you, dress right!" And somebody else hollered: "How can you dress right on $20 a month?"

Two Things Seemed Evident.

An Irishman was brought up for stealing ducks. The evidence against him was overwhelming, yet witnesses followed on each other's heels to testify to his white and blameless life and his stainless character. "Gentlemen of the Jury," the judge summed up, "I think you will agree with me that the prisoner stole the ducks, and that he is the most popular man in the county."

Paths of Democracy.

To accustom oneself to disregard the accidents of manner and station sufficiently to see the man as he is, to have a clear sight for genuine character under any of the disguises of unfamiliarity and prejudice, to know how simple and how common are the elements that go to the making of manhood, are the paths that lead to belief in democracy.—George E. Woodberry.

Puzzle for Marines.

Friends of the citizen "sea soldiers" are telling them that a marine not regularly a marine, although coached in the signals and likely to be called upon to "pinch hit" for a regular marine, must necessarily be a submarine. The "rookies" themselves say that Noah Webster overlooked this knotty problem, when he wrote his best seller, and they are calling on sports editors to decide the question.

Learn to Talk.

All very well, to quote the old saying about speech being silver, but silence golden. Learn to talk, if you want to get on in the world. There are some folk who talk too much. It's true, but they are better than those who are mute and wrapped up in themselves. A wall of reserve isn't at all a pleasant thing to come up against.

Rushing to the Grave.

Everything hurries in New York, including the undertakers. If the mourners will consent to the vehicle moving at a trot on the way to the cemetery, the charge is about half of that for a walking funeral.—Emporia Gazette.

A Golden Feather.

The feathers of the "golden pheasant" are a source of profit, being used in the manufacture of artificial flies for salmon fishing. These birds, natives of China, are the hardest of the pheasant tribe, and are not at all troublesome to rear in this country.

Not What He Meant.

"The paths up this mountain are too steep for even an ass to climb; therefore I did not attempt the ascent!" were the words in a lecture which aroused untimely mirth.

Forests of the Caucasus.

The forests of the Caucasus in Russia are estimated at 12,000,000 acres, chiefly in the Black sea territory, which is at the rate of nearly twenty acres to each inhabitant. The forests of western Siberia have been scarcely explored, but they are stated to be 200,000,000 acres in extent, more than half being in an absolute state of nature.—Rocky Mountain Herald.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble. Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."
Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastric ulcers, food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.
It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bismarck Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloating right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bismarck Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach ailments. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Leader or Follower.

Every man will be expected to contribute his quota to the new era. The Old Book is right when it says, "No man liveth to himself." Influence of ideal and conduct must be made to administer to world betterment. The time has come when it will not longer allow a man to criticize in his neighbor the petty things he practices in his own life. Each man will be expected to be a leader in his line. If he can't be this he will have to be satisfied with following the lead of others in both position and pay. And few men want to do this. But the law is inevitable. Man must either produce or become a follower. Valuable as some men are they can never claim equality with the men of initiative and daring who blaze the trails to human progress.

COMMITTS SUICIDE BY INHALING GAS FUMES

George Hughes, a well known riverman residing at Coal Centre took his own life some time Sunday night or Monday morning by inhaling the fumes from an open gas jet. His dead body was found in his bed in his room. The room was filled with gas coming from an unlighted jet, which had been turned on full. His hand was covered over with blankets. The only reason surmised is that he had been drinking heavily for some time and had not been working. Coroner Heffran was notified and upon his own view decided that Hughes' death was suicide.

County Commissioner John O. Watson while working around his car last evening at his home in Lock Four, had one foot severely burned by gas, which ignited from a lantern he was carrying. However, his injuries are not severe enough to keep Mr. Watson at home as he left for Washington this morning.

BOSSES OPPOSE CHARTER BILL

Country Members Are Urged to Support Measure For Reform in Quaker City.

CONTRACTOR RULE THE ISSUE

Municipal Government Business, Not Sordid Politics, Says Powell Evans to Opponents of Proposed Legislation.

Philadelphia, April 7.—An urgent appeal to members of the legislature from throughout the state to support the Woodward bill, providing Philadelphia with a new form of government, is being made by the Charter Revision Committee, of which John C. Winston is chairman. Mr. Winston said today he was surprised at the interest of citizens outside of Philadelphia in the proposed reform legislation, as indicated by letters reaching the committee's headquarters. He also stated that he had been assured of strong support for the bill from legislators from rural districts. Conditions in this city, due to contractor boss politics, are emphasized in a statement mailed to members of the legislature by the charter committee. It reads: "The Legislature is about to be asked to adopt the draft of the proposed new city charter for Philadelphia. In order to pass, it must receive the support of many members from the country districts. It is not to be expected that the country members will interest themselves to the extent of delving into the details of Philadelphia administration. Not a few of them are likely to be confused by the division which exists in the city delegation. And yet the explanation is easy. Politicians of the contractor-boss order are opposed to any reforms that might endanger the selfish interests of the bosses. That is why the delegation is not solidly for the measure. Contractor bossism has its agents and sends them to the Legislature.

Reform Movement Non-Partisan.

"The proposed charter is an honest and serious effort to change conditions for the better. The city always will suffer as long as the present system prevails. Politicians are in politics. Disorganization rules the Department of Public Safety. The streets are dirty. Contractors do about as they please. The city's Councilmanic body is huge, unwieldy, out-of-date and owned by a political contracting machine. It is proposed to take the police out of politics. It is proposed to curb the greed of contractors and force them to live up to their agreements. It is proposed to abolish the antiquated Councils and create a small one-chamber business body.

"Naturally the charter draft is not perfect. It is quite possible to amend it in a few respects. But the Legislature who really wishes to aid Philadelphia in her attempt to reach a higher level should bear one or two facts in mind: The draft is the work not of any partisan machine, but of a committee of citizens devoid of political feeling. Whatever amendments are made, therefore, should have the sanction of the citizens and should not be forced by the contractor bosses. Various bills have been introduced at the behest of sordid interests. This is their method of organizing opposition to the charter and of misleading Legislators.

"Safety for Philadelphia lies only in defeating the snares of the politicians."

No Deals, Says Senator Penrose.

Senator Penrose, who says he intends to remain in Philadelphia until Congress shall be called in extra session—yesterday made this statement bearing upon the local political situation:

"The reform legislation for Philadelphia ought to be passed promptly by the Legislature as soon as it has been perfected. No amendments should be accepted thereto except those urged by friends of the measure.

"It is ridiculous to talk of compromise or political deals in this connection. The legislation stands on its merits as an effort to rescue Philadelphia from the abuses and malfeasantances and general demoralization in which the municipality ends itself.

"The provisions of the bills and all amendments thereto should have the single object in view of reaching this result.

"The details of the reform measures cannot be made subjects of political manipulation. There is a patriotic duty to be performed, with out compromise or without political trading.

"It is too early to discuss the question of candidates for the office of Mayor. The first task to be performed is to pass the legislation at Harrisburg.

"I am certainly not in favor of any compromise or dickering on the majority with the political elements who have brought the city to its present deplorable condition.

"The next candidate for Mayor of Philadelphia ought to make his appeal to the people on the issue of the re-deposition of Philadelphia."

Demand For Charter Revision.

In a reply to a statement of Senator Vare during the course of the legislative hearing on the revised charter bill, that no real sentiment for it exists in Philadelphia, Powell Evans, of the Charter Committee, said:

"When Senator Vare says there is no sentiment in Philadelphia for charter revision he means that no such sentiment exists among political contractor bosses, their office holders and those who poll large machine majorities through the use of gunmen politics. It is these people alone in Philadelphia who have so far positively or actively opposed the New Charter bill."

In making his statement Mr. Evans also made public the names of more than one hundred business, civic, religious and similar bodies, which, he said, was but an incomplete list of those which unqualifiedly have endorsed revision of the charter.

"Senator Vare's opinion suggests the old saying that men believed most willingly those things they wish," continued Mr. Evans. "A little later on he will learn something regarding sentiment in Philadelphia. The demand for charter revision comes from the civic organization, from churches, the newspapers and the independent voters who for years have protested against contractor rule and other abuses in the public service.

"The influences that seek genuine reform in Philadelphia believe that city government is business, not contractor politics. This hardly will appeal to the contractor bosses, but it will to the voter who believes in honest and progressive methods in the administration of municipal government.

"I suggest to Senator Vare that he answer the Charter Committee's statement, published March 12, presenting court decisions on how Vare has performed public work here. He was dumb on this at the Harrisburg hearing."

When Spiders Molt.

When a spider is preparing to molt it stops eating for several days and fastens itself by a short line of web to one of the main lines of its snare, which holds it firmly while it proceeds to undress. The skin cracks all around the thorax, and is held only by the front edge. Next the abdomen is uncovered. Now comes the struggle to free the legs. It works and kicks vigorously, and seems to have very hard work. But continued perseverance of about 15 minutes brings it out of the old dress; it seems almost lifeless, and is limp and helpless for several minutes, but gradually it comes back to life and looks brighter and prettier than before. To young people this is an operation of extreme interest. A little boy watched the molting of a nearly full-grown pet spider, and ran to his mother, saying: "Mamma, my spider undressed and hung his dress on a line."

Goat Is Regiment's Pet.

As a rule, regimental pets are animals which are more easily domesticated, such as the goat of the Royal Welsh fusiliers, who have long enjoyed the privilege of leading their pet, with a shield on its horns, at the head of the drums.

On St. David's day, after dinner, the drum major, accompanied by Billy, enters the messroom with a dish of leeks. He solemnly makes the round of the table, followed by the goat, and offers the national vegetable to each officer.

Even in the case of such a pet accidents, however, sometimes have happened. Once a drummer's boy, a lightweight, was on the goat's back, when some incident annoyed the animal and the youngster was summarily thrown on the mess table and killed outright.

Rush for Free Molasses.

When a tank car filled with 8,000 gallons of molasses was upset near Eelford, Pa., and the molasses began to run out, people came by scores, on foot, in carriages and by automobiles, and salvaged some hundreds of gallons of molasses before the railroad men plugged the opening and left dozens of disappointed ones waiting to get at the outflow.

Society of Cincinnati.

The Society of the Cincinnati was formed in 1783 by officers of the revolutionary army to keep up a spirit of comradeship among its members. It took its name from the Roman ruler who was a farmer before he was a soldier. At first, membership in the society was made hereditary passing from father to oldest son, but Washington persuaded the society to abandon this feature. It was considered rather an aristocratic organization and the legislatures of some of the states censured it. The city of Cincinnati was named in honor of it.

Harness the Streams.

Of the 60,700,000 horse power of water power in the United States, all but 5,300,000 horse power is running to waste. (Thomas F. Logan writes in Leslie's Magazine. The water is at present locked up against utilization by the laws governing the forest reserves, the general public domain and the navigable streams. It has been estimated by Secretary of Agriculture Houston that there is enough timber going to waste in the forest reserves and on cutover lands to supply wood pulp indefinitely, if the question of its manufacture by water power could be solved.

EMBODIED THE GERMAN IDEA

Mother of the Great Napoleon Might Well Be Described as Typical Teuton "Hausfrau."

Probably the only marble bust of Napoleon's mother was one of the objects that the Potsdam palace counted its most interesting relic. For beside the bust the visitor came upon a small library every title of which relates to the Bonaparte family. This collection is vaguely accounted for as the fruit of Blucher's capture of the emperor's personal luggage, beside the seizure of most of the Bonaparte family when the empire fell in 1814. Prussian agents in Paris during the various revolutionary outbreaks are credited with "assembling" anything identified with Bonaparte or his family. One volume, the alleged "Memoirs of Madame Mere," (the mother of Bonaparte) was specially cherished by the Hohenzollerns, for old Kaiser Wilhelm caused the chapters to be read to him when too ill to share the soldier drills and army maneuvers. The Kaiser's interest in the Madame Mere reminiscences was that Laetitia Ramonini, as pictured by herself, was an exact type of the Teuton "hausfrau." It was a never-ending embarrassment to the children of Madame Mere that the old lady couldn't be induced to assume an imperial state; that she remained to the last the sagacious, economical housewife, upon whom rested the responsibility of bringing up a brood of eight.

SUGAR GROWN UNDER PAPER

New Method Introduced Into the Hawaiian Islands Said to Have Proved Highly Successful.

A new and very odd method of growing sugar cane is proving highly successful in the Hawaiian Islands. When the cane is beginning to sprout, yard-wide strips of a heavy kind of paper are laid lengthwise over the rows of little plants and held in place with cane-field trash. The paper is strong enough to keep down and smother the starting weeds, but not to kill the stout and hardy young cane. In five or six weeks the weed seeds beneath the paper have all germinated and been smothered to death, but the cane shoots have either forced their way through or erected themselves sufficiently to make little tent-like elevations. Laborers then pass along the rows and with long knives make slits in the sheets, permitting the shoots to come through. The liberated shoots at first are blanched white, but quickly turn green and tasty. Weeding thereafter is almost wholly needless, because there are very few weeds. There is an increase of ten tons (about 28 percent) in the yield of cane per acre, the Baltimore Sun says. Half the labor is saved and the production of actual sugar per acre is augmented by more than a ton. The paper used is made out of "bagasse," which is the residue of the cane after the sugary sap has been squeezed out of it.

In a Girl's Pocket.

A great deal has been written, in both poetry and prose, about the relics the boys carry in their pockets, writes the high school reporter for the Toronto Republican, but for some reason they missed the girls. Recently our investigation committee held an inquest upon a girl's pockets and found the following: One scented pocket handkerchief, one vanity case containing powder, mirror and some small change, one powder rag, one crochet hook, one ball of thread and work, one tatting shuttle, one button hook, one nail file, one wire hairpin, one coat button, one stick chewing gum, a note from her last beau, and three sen-sens, besides numerous unidentified odds and ends of a miscellaneous nature.

CARRIED TOO MUCH MONEY IN POCKETS

Thomas Pencillo and Florrie Jordan, two Italian coal miners of Fayette City, recently had a very exciting experience while on the way to work. One morning not long ago both men were on their way about 6 o'clock, when they were held up on the highway and Pencillo claimed to have $590 which he carried in a leather wallet taken from him. The men live in what is known as Nauvoo Hollow, and work at Arnold No. 2 mine.

After the men had reported the case to the officers State Policemen got on the job and arrested two men, Patsy Shalls of Fayette City and on M. Tarella, who claimed to be from Cherry Valley. When they were arrested, Shalls was found to have $80 in money and an automatic revolver with a large supply of shells. The accused was given a hearing on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and was fined $25 and costs, which he paid. Immediately on his discharge he was re-arrested charged with highway robbery, and Pencillo and Jordan both identified him as the man who had pushed a revolver in their face when they were held up. He was held for trial at the Fayette county courts.

STORIES ARE FALSE ABOUT OUR SOLDIERS

An Englishwoman in Philadelphia reports a great deal of pro-German gossip that "American soldiers are having their morals endangered by the sale of drink in the British Isles, that they are seen drunk on the streets there and that America has had to have wheatless days so that England can have grain to make whiskey." She adds: "I consider it a gross insult to allow such a report to be circulated with impunity, especially when I personally know that to serve a man in uniform is strictly prohibited there."

These reports are not being circulated with impunity. They have been many times denied by the Committee on Public Information, the British War Mission at Washington, the American newspaper correspondents in London and the newspapers of this country generally.

Since the beginning of 1917 no whiskey has been manufactured in Great Britain and "no manufacture of spirits for human consumption has been permitted." In February 1918 all the unmalted barley in the hands of the English brewers was seized for breadstuffs. The same measures against the liquor traffic that have been enforced here are being enforced in England, and all reports to the contrary are pro-German falsehoods many times disproved.

How Much Would the KAISER Tax Your Business?

Think this thought twice over: "If we should fail to win this war what would happen to my business?"

What is left of business in the invaded districts of France and Belgium? What will be left of business here, if we fail to crush the sinister power of Prussian militarism? How much would you have left after paying the taxes and levies imposed by a victorious Germany?

Defend Yourself With LIBERTY BONDS

This is not only a war for Democracy and Liberty, but a war of self-defense. Germany menaces our rights, our self-respect, our homes, and our means of livelihood.

Every citizen—every business man—has weapons of defense ready to his hand. These weapons are Liberty Bonds. We cannot all fight with guns and bayonets but we can all fight with Liberty Bonds.

Buy to Your Utmost

Of course you have bought Liberty Bonds. Every one has. But how many more will you buy? The success of the Fourth Loan and of the war itself depends on your answer to that question.

Buy all the bonds you can. Go to your bank and make your arrangements. Buy more than you ever thought you could buy.

Winchester, Va.
"I am a farmer's wife, 75 years of age, and pneumonia left me in a weak, run-down condition, so I could hardly keep about and do my work. A neighbor brought me Vinol, and it has built up my strength so fast that I think it is the best medicine I have ever taken." —Mrs. Jennie Chapman.

For 30 years, under various conditions, weak women, overworked men, and old people have found no remedy like Vinol.
